

DEMOCRATIC DELUGE

Carries Republican Candidates Out
To the Sea of Oblivion.

BEDFORD TOWNSHIP

Again Distinguishes Itself—Names of the Officers Elected in the Various Districts of the County.

The election on Tuesday the Democrats of Bedford borough captured nearly all of the offices that were worth having.

They elected Dr.

Walter Fundenberg Bedford, burgess;
Patrick Hughes, councilman; Frank Boswer, tax collector; William Dunle
Thompson, auditor; Andrew Jackson
Allen, assistant assessor East ward;

Thomas Hayden Jamison, judge of election East ward, and got their share of the other election officers, of which the Republicans saved these candidates from the Democratic deluge:

John V. Kellinger, councilman; Dr.
J. A. Clark and W. A. Morehouse, school directors; W. D. Stewart, as sistant assessor West ward; Guy Bay lor, judge of election West ward, and their quota of the rest of the election officers. Dr. Enfield was given the largest majority. When he went under the wire he was 98 votes ahead of his 3½-year-old opponent.

Both parties put up a strong fight.
The vote was one of the largest ever polled at a spring election. The town usually goes Republican by about 50 votes, and the Democrats naturally figured elated over their big victory.

Bedford township stood nobly by its colors, electing the entire Democratic ticket by magnificent majorities.

The tabulated returns from Bedford borough and Bedford township and the names of the officers elected throughout the county follow:

THE FREEMAN'S BALLOT.

Matthew's Wonderful News—The Worcester—English Outgenerates And Outfights On Many Battlefields.

Special correspondence of The Gazette.

New York, February 20.—Of all the black crimes on the calendar there is not one that will compare in villainy with the assassination of the Freeman's Ballot. We thought years ago, when honesty was the rule and villainy the exceptional crime, that illegal voting on a large scale could never be done.

At the cost of some millions of dollars New York was determined, if it could possibly be done, to stamp it out of existence, and that freedom, the rightful heritage of the citizen, should pass, spotless, from father to son as long as the republic should stand. Its threats of punishment were not fatal. Men stood at the gate ready to avenge the breaking of the law. It had the power and the will to do that which was right, but the cohorts of political crime were strong, fierce and well taught. Last week we were awoken from our delightful dream of political honesty, when the grand jury, for illegal registry and illegal voting, indicted about a hundred and fifty foreigners who presented themselves for the papers which would complete their citizenship. A well known ward healer was there to wash as to their daring life we are lost in wonder at the proficiency which they display in the art of war and the unshaken bravery with which they have contested every foot of ground when confronted by the flower of English chivalry. More marvelous than everything else is the discovery that this insignificant republic should be in possession of the finest and costliest fighting arms, large and small, that the present generation has known or seen, and that England, the fighter of fighters on land or sea, should be outgeneraled and outfought on almost every important field where the Boers and British have been brought together.

Of all the points in the study of the art of war strategy is considered the greatest. It consists in making your enemy believe that you are going to do one thing whereas your real intent is exactly opposite. In this important point of war's exciting study these Dutch Boers have taught England a lesson she is not likely to forget.

On one occasion early in the war the British and Boers fought each other in equal numbers.

The fighting was fierce, the British forcing the Boers back with a power that nothing could resist.

Suddenly the Boers broke and, turning their backs on their foes, fled the frightened deer. With a wild hurrash the British sprang forward in pursuit; they were gaining on the Boers every minute when suddenly the Boers turned and faced the British with fixed bayonets, at the same time pouring a deadly volley into their ranks; then another opened from every quarter; they were ambushed by on the other side, and the greatest carnage ensued.

At the cost of some millions of dollars New York was determined, if it could possibly be done, to stamp it out of existence, and that freedom, the rightful heritage of the citizen, should pass, spotless, from father to son as long as the republic should stand.

Its threats of punishment were not fatal. Men stood at the gate ready to avenge the breaking of the law. It had the power and the will to do that which was right, but the cohorts of political crime were strong, fierce and well taught.

The only good hair food you can buy is—

HAIR

It is starved. It keeps coming out, gets thinner and thinner, bald spots appear, then actual baldness.

The only good hair food you can buy is—

AYERS HAIR VIGOR

It feeds the roots, stops starvation, and the hair grows thick and long. It cures dandruff also. Keep a bottle of it on your dressing table.

It always restores color to faded or gray hair. Mind, we say "always."

When she has secured a good husband, she must "love him and honor him most earthly things," and "answer him meekly, not as an afterling" (i.e., a shrew).

So may this slake his mood and be his dear darling.
